	Untidy Drink your food and eat your drink! Throw unused dishes in the sink! Splash water on the kitchen floor! Drop mucky spoons into their drawers! Clean windows with a dirty rag! Toss just-cooked food in dustbin bags! I'm tidy to be a help, So why does my mum wail and yelp!
K3/P1 Level	Dream by ABDUL WAHAB If a dream breaks even In a dream you get hurt In your heart as dream is The driving force of your life Without dream soul is dead Life is like a cloud without rain Body becomes a stem cut from a tree Lies like a log in a frosty fog. So, make sure the body is not fed With that of the soul which is dead

And floats across,
Echoing.

The word grows louder
As it rebounds
Bringing torturing clarity
To those oft forgotten
Memories.

He hears the word
For the first time
Since it left his mouth.
That terrible word
Brings tears to his eyes.

He reaches up,
Touches his face,
Feels the wetness.
Unbelieving the tears,
He looks down.

He stares long and hard
At the depths of that chasm.
His eyes trace the other side,
Looking for some way across,
But it is so far away.

Once it was so close,
He remembers.
Once this chasm wasn't here,
But instead was solid
Beneath their feet.

And Tess, she didn't worry

She didn't even care

When Mickey shared her dinner

She never turned a hair

But then he got quite cheeky

And some would say too brave

The noise that mouse was making

Was like a rodent rave

He left no signs of presence

Not even one small crap

But Mary knew the time was nigh

She'd have to get a trap

She got ones that would snap shut

She got some that were sticky

But which of these would do the trick

And put an end to Mickey?

She laced the traps with biscuits

And then she tried some cheese

That mouse was having none of it

He was a little tease

One day she thought she'd got him

Those traps they never fail

But Mary soon found out that Mickey

Only lost his tail

He's moved into the bathroom

That mouse sure is no dope

He knows if he gets peckish

He can nibble on the soap

The story's far from over

The war has just begun

'cos Mary just will not give up

English Story

Pre-nursery/K1/K2 Level	The Dog's House In the wintertime, a Dog curled up in as small a space as possible on account of the cold, determined to make himself a house. However when the summer returned again, he lay asleep stretched at his full length and appeared to himself to be of a great size. Now he considered that it would be neither an easy nor a necessary work to make himself such a house as would accommodate him.

K3/P1 Level	The Bee and Jupiter A Bee from Mount Hymettus, the queen of the hive, ascended to Olympus to present Jupiter some honey fresh from her combs. Jupiter, delighted with the offering of honey, promised to give whatever she should ask. She therefore besought him, saying, "Give me, I pray thee, a sting, that if any mortal shall approach to take my honey, I may kill him." Jupiter was much displeased, for he loved the race of man, but could not refuse the request because of his promise. He thus answered the Bee: "You shall have your request, but it will be at the peril of your own life. For if you use your sting, it shall remain in the wound you make, and then you will die from the loss of it." Evil wishes, like chickens, come home to roost.
P2/P3/P4 Level	Two Frogs A group of frogs were traveling through the woods, and two of them fell into a deep pit. When the other frogs saw how deep the pit was, they told the two frogs that they were as good as dead. The two frogs ignored the comments and tried to jump up out of the pit with all their might. The other frogs kept telling them to stop, that they were as good as dead. Finally, one of the frogs took heed to what the other frogs were saying and gave up. He fell down and died.

	The other frog continued to jump as hard as he could. Once again, the crowd of frogs yelled at him to stop the pain and just die. He jumped even harder and finally made it out. When he got out, the other frogs said, "Did you not hear us?" The frog explained to them that he was deaf. He thought they were encouraging him the entire time.
P5/P6 Level	The Dog and the Cook A rich man gave a great feast, to which he invited many friends and acquaintances. His Dog availed himself of the occasion to invite a stranger Dog, a friend of his, saying, "My master gives a feast, and there is always much food remaining; come and sup with me tonight." The Dog thus invited went at the hour appointed, and seeing the preparations for so grand an entertainment, said in the joy of his heart, "How glad I am that I came! I do not often get such a chance as this. I will take care and eat enough to last me both today and tomorrow." While he was congratulating himself and wagging his tail to convey his pleasure to his friend, the Cook saw him moving about among his dishes and, seizing him by his fore and hind paws, bundled him without ceremony out of the window. He fell with force upon the ground and limped away, howling dreadfully. His yelling soon attracted other street dogs, who came up to him and inquired how he had enjoyed his supper. He replied, "Why, to tell you the truth, I drank so much wine that I

He told his employer-contractor of his plans to leave the house-building business to live a more leisurely life with his wife and enjoy his extended family. He would miss the paycheck each week, but he wanted to retire. They could get by. The contractor was sorry to see his good worker go & asked if he could build just one more house as a personal favor. The carpenter said yes, but over time it was easy to see that his heart was not in his work. He resorted to shoddy workmanship and used inferior materials. It was an unfortunate way to end a dedicated career. When the carpenter finished his work, his employer came to inspect the house. Then he handed the front-door key to the carpenter and said, "This is your house... my gift to you." The carpenter was shocked! What a shame! If he had only known he was building his own house, he would have done it all so differently. So it is with us. We build our lives, a day at a

S4/S5/S6 Level/Adult Group	The Wooden Bowl A frail old man went to live with his son, daughter-in-law, and a four-year old grandson. The old man's hands trembled, his eyesight was blurred, and his step faltered. The family ate together nightly at the dinner table. But the elderly grandfather's shaky hands and failing sight made eating rather difficult. Peas rolled off his spoon onto the floor. When he grasped the glass often milk spilled on the tablecloth. The son and daughter-in-law became irritated with the mess. "We must do something about grandfather," said the son. I've had enough of his spilled milk, noisy eating, and food on the floor. So the husband and wife set a small table in the corner. There, grandfather ate alone while the rest of the family enjoyed dinner at the dinner table. Since grandfather had broken a dish or two, his food was served in a wooden bowl. Sometimes when the family glanced in grandfather's direction, he had a tear in his eye as he ate alone. Still, the only words the couple had for him were sharp admonitions when he dropped a fork or spilled food. The four-year-old watched it all in silence.

One evening before supper, the father noticed his son playing with wood scraps on the floor. He asked the child sweetly, "What are you making?" Just as sweetly, the boy responded, "Oh, I am making a little bowl for you and mama to eat your food from when I grow up." The four-year-old smiled and went back to work. The words so struck the parents that they were speechless. Then tears started to stream down their cheeks. Though no word was spoken, both knew what must be done. That evening the husband took grandfather's hand and gently led him back to the family table.

For the remainder of his days he ate every meal with the family. And for some reason, neither husband nor wife seemed to care any longer when a fork was dropped, milk spilled, or the tablecloth soiled. Children are remarkably perceptive. Their eyes ever observe, their ears ever listen, and their minds ever process the messages they absorb. If they see us patiently provide a happy home atmosphere for family members, they will imitate that attitude for the rest of their lives. The wise parent realizes that every day that him up against a parked car, shouting, "What was that all about and who are you? Just what the heck are you doing? That's a new car and that brick you threw is going to cost a lot of money. Why did you do it?"

The young boy was apologetic. "Please mister ... please, I'm sorry... I didn't know what else to do," he pleaded.

"I threw the brick because no one else would stop..."

With tears dripping down his face and off his chin, the youth pointed to a spot just around a parked car.

"It's my brother," he said.

"He rolled off the curb and fell out of his wheelchair and I can't lift him up."

Now sobbing, the boy asked the stunned executive, "Would you please help me get him back into his wheelchair? He's hurt and he's too heavy for me."

Moved beyond words, the driver tried to swallow the rapidly swelling lump in his throat. He hurriedly lifted the handicapped boy back into the wheelchair, then took out his fancy handkerchief and dabbed at the fresh scrapes and cuts. A quick look told him everything was going to be okay.

"Thank you and may God bless you," the grateful child told the stranger.

Too shook up for words, the man simply watched the little boy push his wheelchair-bound brother down the sidewalk toward their home. It was a long, slow walk back to the secrets, stories un-told.

When Mom found out, it cut her so deep...pain so embarrassing she felt dirt-cheap...to hide Mom's pain, was an awful sin...I watched & learned how to binge.

My life was hard, ice ran through my veins...I carried the weight and continued to gain.

Never loving myself & often closing my eyes...I covered my pain to no-one's surprise.

There is no-one I trust, I often feel cold...Many have turned their backs, except 1 great soul.

We called her "Ma-Goo", she charmed us with cheer...she hung with us, while her Dad drank beer.

We grew so close, BEST friends till the end...our bond was MAD tight, can you comprehend?

The next few years were filled with tears, constant emotion between frequent prayers.

Mom fell into deep-sleep, & I missed her aroma...what took my Mom was an angry, dark coma.

5 weeks of crying, so fearfully alone...Mom started to breathe, all on her own.

The damage was clear, no way around it...her mind was lost & felt all criss-crossed.

Since Mom was so sick, Dad was my only role model...I'm just like him, just a tiny re-model!

I trusted my Dad, with all of my heart...all through my life, we will never depart.

Dad soon overtime smoked packs through the days...every now & then he dapped in some Haze.

Ignoring the signs, Dad was becoming discreet...this made his symptoms greatly increase.

It was taking him fast, he tried to pretend...however all signs led to one-end.

Gone in 3 months, could I've noticed sooner?...these questions in mind, I'm NOT a tuner!

Now that he's gone, Moms all I've got...This weights got-to-go...what a long shot!

9-12-2006, my stomach began to intermix...they cut it away, here's my new life...this was all done with a clhtml-knife.

5 years have went by & I'm a brand new person...my life will no longer begin to worsen.

As promised to Dad to always stay strong, he also promised we'd get along...we're now

Had Soar seen See's saw Before See sawed Soar's seesaw, See's saw would not have sawed Soar's seesaw. So See's saw sawed Soar's seesaw. A tree toad loved a she-toad
Who lived up in a tree.
He was a two-toed tree toad
But a three-toed toad was she.
The two-toed tree toad tried to win
The three-toed she-toad's heart,
For the two-toed tree toad loved the ground
That the three-toed tree toad trod.
But the two-toed tree toad tried in vain.
He couldn't please her whim.
From her tree toad bower
With her three-toed power
The she-toad vetoed him.
